

How to choose LED tube light and LED flood lights manufacturer? Here are some tips!

Be it for businesses or industries, LED lights have become very popular and are trending today. Energy efficient and eco-friendly, these lighting products and fixtures also save energy bills and are affordable. These lighting solutions are much better than normal incandescent and fluorescent lighting solutions.

From offering higher amount of light and offering the benefit of reduced consumption of energy, these lights are creating tremendous buzz today. For being so environment friendly and more affordable as replacement of traditional lighting systems, they have become the best options for different individuals and organizations.

Be it LED panel lights, to LED flood lights, LED high bay lights, outdoor LED flood lights or some other products, you should always go for the right manufacturer to get the best supply, at most reasonable bulk rates.

To choose the right LED lighting manufacturer or supplier, here are some tips.

Do they produce the lighting types that you require?

Not every manufacturer can satiate all your demands and hence you should choose the supplier that produces all the products you are looking for. If you are on a hunt for LED tube lights, or outdoor LED flood lights or something else, make sure they produce them regularly, so that you can be assured about the excellence of the required products.

Do they have a reliable quality management system?

The LED lighting manufacturer you are considering to choose should have an efficient quality management system that will prove their trustworthiness. The incoming components and materials they buy from the suppliers must be inspected and the faulty ones should be rejected. The production process should be timely checked by the special QA staffs.

They should offer warranty on the products

No matter which product collection you are looking for, you should ask whether they offer warranty on the LED lighting solutions or not. At least 3 to 5 years' warranty is very crucial and the customer service team must cooperate with the bulk buyers if the products cause any issue during the warranty period. Replacement on faulty products is must!

Can you add brand logo?

Ask them whether they provide the benefit of letting you put your company's brand logo on the product label or not. This is essential as you should have some benefits of customization.

Price system

It is important to have the LED light products that are within your budget, and hence ask them how much they charge on the bulk products and whether they offer discounts or not.

Thus, while buying the LED lighting solutions in bulk, do some background research and hire the right manufacturer to meet all your specific needs.
